

PRODUCT EVALUATION SPECIALIST

We are looking for an enthusiastic, proactive and multi-skilled team member to join us as we bring our software product, AetherStore, to market. AetherStore is a software-only storage solution that pools unused hard drive space on workstation machines, enabling you to create a robust, secure network drive with no additional hardware. Please visit <https://aetherstore.com/> to learn more.

The Product Evaluation Specialist will initially focus on software testing, but a self-starter will find that as a member of a fast-growing start-up, there are many opportunities to expand the role. His or her job is to think critically about the product and become an expert on AetherStore, with initial responsibilities including:

- Working closely with the Development Team to test new features and bug fixes
- Writing scripts to automate testing
- Tracking general stability of the product and reporting progress to the Operations Team
- Maintaining the test environment and providing general system administration
- Communicating directly with clients to provide technical support

We are looking for someone who is:

- Extremely detail oriented
- Skilled at logical reasoning and linear-thinking
- Tech savvy and enthusiastic about trying new software and learning new skills
- Curious and experimental; always asking how things work
- A talented communicator who can write both clearly and personably
- Knowledgeable about start-up culture and excited to be a part of a collaborative team

An ideal candidate also has:

- A background in mathematics
- Some coding experience in any language
- Interest in IT or Windows System Administration

Note that a Bachelor's degree is required for this position.

WORKING AT AETHERWORKS

AetherWorks is a software research and venture development start-up in the heart of Manhattan. We are a small team and each of our employees plays an integral role in delivering brand new software to market. Our offices, located overlooking Bryant Park, provide a spacious, open work environment with great views.

BENEFITS:

- Competitive salaries
- Generous 401k matching program
- Stock Options
- Health and dental benefits at no monthly cost to employees
- Pre-tax commuter benefits
- Generous paid vacation allotment and company-wide time off around the holidays
- Company-stocked snacks and drinks

TO APPLY: Please submit a resume to jobs@aetherworks.com.